President-Elect Donald J. Trump

Transition Team Executive Committee

Preparing For DAY ONE to One Hundred Recommendation for President-Elect Donald J. Trump

The Trump Pence Small Business Advisory Council (TPSBA) members greatly enjoyed the opportunity to contribute to Mr. Trump's victory. Working as a team we were able to help carry the day in tight races including Michigan, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin to WIN historic victories. These 'rustbelt' overlooked but not forgotten States represent the HEART & HANDS of the people on Main Street who were inspired by Mr. Trump's commitment to MAKE AMERICA WORK AGAIN.

Transition Assistance Support & Know How (TASK)

The TPSBA Council would like to advance the strategic objectives articulated during the campaign into President-Elect Trump's Transition. The Council is a valuable resource, a talent bank of 'know how' with firsthand experience confronting the 'Rip Tide of Red Tape' burdening Small Business across America.

Every Federal Government agency including Agriculture, Defense, Education, Energy, HUD, HHS, Homeland Security, Interior, Justice, Labor, SBA, Transportation, Health & Human Services, State, Treasury and Veterans Affairs currently imposes numerous redundant regulations making WORKING with American Small Businesses too costly, counterproductive and complex.

Working as an active advisory group ready to offer input to assist with formulating solutions at every agency, especially:

- Small Business Administration
- Department of Commerce

TPSBA Council members can continue to offer diverse perspectives and solutions on policies that will make it easier for Small Business to WORK WITH Federal Agencies to hire, invest, build, grow and produce ~ putting AMERICA FIRST.

Day One to One Hundred

We believe on Day One, President Trump will take immediate action to:

- Reduce Overregulation and burdensome costs associated with Government mandates
- Reduce Tax rates, simplify reporting, repatriate American capital
- Replace oppressive Obamacare's runaway costs and restrictive policies
- Repeal Banking Regulations imposed by Dodd-Frank restricting Small Business access to working Capital needed to hire, invest and impact local communities
- Revive our Economy, Rebuild our Military and Reaffirm The Constitutional role of Limited Government

Discovering Ways of Cooperating

'...we've let Government take away many things we once considered were really ours to do voluntarily out of the goodness of our hearts and a sense of community pride and neighborliness.' ~ President Ronald Reagan

To stimulate support for a spectrum of community aid handled by the Federal Government until now, we must explore and identify ways the private sector and government working together can address public sector challenges, everyday "everyman problems" including health, education, social welfare and unemployment.

We believe President Trump should authorize forming:

- President's Task Force on Private Sector Initiatives
- White House Conference on Small Business

A private sector initiatives strategy will convey a clear message; President Trump wants solutions to come more from the private sector and more as local initiatives. It will be essential to eliminate Federal regulations that inhibit effective local initiatives.

The private sector, driven by Small Business, can make a significant impact by expanding its involvement in community revitalization, and by helping to improve local markets, investments and creating lasting employment.

We look forward to advancing these recommendations during the transition period, and working together to engage on Day One.

Sincerely,
Trump Pence Small Business Advisory Council

TRUMP Renovates NYC Central Park's Wollman Skating Rink

The rink was closed in 1980 for a proposed two years of renovations at $9.1 million.

Six years and $13 million later, after the problem-plagued work was still not completed by the city, Donald Trump persuaded Mayor Ed Koch to let him complete the work in four months at $2.5 million in order to have it open by the end of the year.<sup>[3][4]</sup> Koch initially objected but later agreed to Trump's proposal when Trump offered to pay for the renovations himself with the stipulation that he be allowed to run the venue and an adjacent restaurant and use the profits to recoup his costs.<sup>[5]</sup> The rink reopened to the public on November 13, 1986, with a ribbon-cutting ceremony and press conference attended by Koch and Trump, covered by national evening broadcast television news.<sup>[6][7]</sup> Total cost of renovations by Trump came in under budget at $2.25 million.

PRIVATE SECTOR AID SOUGHT BY REAGAN

By KATHLEEN TELTSCH

Published: September 27, 1981

The Reagan Administration, as it pushes ahead with budget cuts, is turning to business and philanthropic leaders to stimulate support for a spectrum of community aid handled by the Federal Government until now.

A first step, White House officials said, was President Reagan's breakfast meeting last Monday with 18 prominent citizens. Many of those invited came away saying that they were gratified by Mr. Reagan's pledge of continuing concern for community needs, pleased that he had asked their advice and generally buoyed by the impression that the White House was prepared to collaborate.

Mr. Reagan, in his address Thursday proposing new budget cuts, also underscored the Administration's intent to make a nationwide effort to encourage citizens to discover community needs.

Declaring that the "spirit of voluntarism still lives in America," the President cited the outpouring of help for charity drives, disaster relief and hospitals and other nonprofit organizations. "The truth is," he went on, "we've let Government take away many things we once considered were really ours to do voluntarily out of the goodness of our hearts and a sense of community pride and neighborliness."
